NO CHANGE IN FEDERATION WOMEN'S CLUBS REJECT THE PLAN OF REORGANIZATION.

The Convention Decides to Go On With the Present System of Representation-Color Line Question Dodged-Many Papers Read at the Meetings of the Federation.

MILWAUEEE; June 7,- The plan of reorganization was considered at the business session of the National federation of women's clubs this morning, and, as was predicted, reorganization was defeated. The vote was 431 against and 286 for reorganization. The session the liveliest that the women have had since they came here. At times there were a dozen on their feet all talking at once. So heated was the discussion that on several occasions the women became so excited that they hissed the motions. The wrangling over parliamentary tactics was continual and several times Mrs. Lowe, the President, had to remind the women that unless they preserved order, the men at home, who were all watching the proceedings of the convention through the press, would be well justified in saying that women could not meet and preserve order. There were many speeches, among them one by Mrs. Edwin H. Harrison of St. Louis, who said that reorganiration was the only logical plan for betterment of the federation. The South and West voted argely against reorganization.

The color question did not come up, although Mrs. Joseph St. Pierre Ruffin of Boston occu-pied a seat in the convention. Mrs. Ruffin was with the Massachusetts delegation in the hall, but had no opportunity to vote. The vote was vote was counted Mrs. Ruffin was not juciuded. Throughout the meeting, however, friends to bring up the color question, but Mrs. Lowe skilfully kept that issue in the made to count the vote by individual delegates. That would have given the Massachusetts delegation a chance to bring up the barring off Mrs. Ruffin, but Mrs. Lowe ruled the motion out. On the other hand, Mrs. Ruffin has decided to maintain her seat in the convention and when the time comes she will, no doubt, try to obtain recognition from the Chair. The Massachusetts delegation has sent a formal protest to the Executive Board protesting against excluding Mrs. Ruffin. The protest is:

SUICIDE ON SWEETHEART'S GRAVE. H. Ballard Gray Unable to Withstand His

LOWELL, Mass., June 7 .- H. Ballard Gray, a druggist, was found dead on the grave of Miss Maud N. Howard, his former flance, in Edson Cemetery this morning. The medical examiner believes that Gray committed suicide by poison. In the hands of Gray were found two photographs of Miss Howard, also letters addressed to his mother and to Mrs. Howard. On a druggist's memorandum was written:

"It is hard to live without Maud, harder than any one can imagine.' Gray also wrote a request that he be buried in a white coffin, and named a Lowell undertaker whom he desired to conduct the funeral taker whom he desired to conduct the funeral services.

Gray was 20 years old, the son of Harry Gray, a most and provision dealer of Lowell. The young man had been employed in drug atores in Lowell and Lynn. It was well known that he was engaged to be married to Miss Howard, and that her death on March 26 last had considerably disturbed him. Mrs. Howard, who has not yet recovered from the shock of her daughter's death, said:

"Mr. Gray was here yesterday afternoon and evening, and told us it was impossible for him to get over Maud's death. He had been paying attention to my daughter about two years. They were engaged to be married, but the date of the marriage had not been settled."

Lieut. Martin then took the stand in his own defence. He said the testimony given by Lieuts. Hall, Wilbur and Porter in regard to his use of morphine was true. He acquired the habit of using the drug while a cadet at West Point. It was first given to him by Surgeon Wilcox o ease a toothache. The next time he took the drug was when he was kicked in the back by a horse in the military riding hall, and on nother occasion when he had malarial fever at Oyster Bay in September, 1898. He used the drug then to produce sleep, but disconinued its use afterward until December of last year when he again began taking it every day n doses of ten and fifteen grains. During February and March he increased the dose to twenty-five grains a day. In April he gave up taking the morphine tablets and in their place substituted whiskey of which he drank a pint taking the morphine tablets and in their place substituted whiskey of which he drank a pint a day.

Martin further stated that when he handed over the accounts to Dr. Porter, who succeeded him as treasurer of the exchange, he asked him in what form he wanted to have the funds on hand turned over to him. Dr. Porter replied that he preferred a check and accordingly one was given to him drawn on the Merchants' Trust Company of Manhattan for $1,732. When he gave the check he believed that Dr. Porter would deposit it in his bank and that when it reached the Trust Company a day or two later there would be sufficient funds on hand to meet payment. Dr. Porter, however, immediately tried to have it cashed, and was informed that it was worthess. While he was treasurer of the exchange, Martin stated, there was never a time that he was not financially able to discharge his obligations. He owned then, as he does now, 100 shares in the Old Dominion Coal Company, which is now, worth $4,700.

Defendant said he kept his own personal account with the funds of the exchange, and he had no intention of defrauding any one. He did not know that his account had been overdrawn when he gave the check to Dr. Porter.
When Dr. Porter spoke to him about the matter, and also the falsified receipts, he gave him from Haight & Freese of Manhattan, with whom he had an account.

Under examination by the court Martin said that he did not remember a number of things which he had done while treasurer of the exchange. The case will be concluded to-day.

His life as a cowboy had hardened his muscles and made of him a thorough athlete. He was herding cattle in Oklahoma when the Spanish-American War came and hurried to join the Rough Riders.

In his delirium he frequently cheers for "Teddy" and talks of "Old Buckey," probably meaning Capt. O'Neill, who was killed in battle. Sometimes he imagines he is in a fight and tries to get out of his cot to engage in the charge. His aunt in Oklahoma has been summoned and is expected here soon. All that professional skill can suggest has been done to save Hill's life, but it is believed now that he cannot survive.

STREET CAR MEN IN CINCINNATI. President Kilgour Conferring With His Men as to Bettering Their Condition.

CINCINNATI, June 7.-President John Kilgour of the Cincinnati Street Railway Company has been consulting employees of the road regarding the betterment of their condition. It is said he has discussed the proposition of increasing wages. The men proposed a graduated scale fixing the minimum wage rate at 162-3 cents an hour, the present rate, with a graduated increase for older men. Kilgour has not decided what course to pursue. The men have been quietly reorganizing the union that existed last spring when demands were made on the company. It was chartered under the name of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employees and almost 1,000 joined.

Mr. Kilgour admitted to-day that a scheme of dividing part of the roads profits among the employees had been considered, but refused to discuss the salary proposition. been consulting employees of the road regard-

"Chairman of the Finance Committee"—And Put His Friend Ten Eyck at the Head of the County Executive Committee-Amendment to the Rules Proposed at a Specia Meeting of the County Committee.

Senator Platt came over from Washington esterday afternoon. He said he was very tired and wanted to go to bed early. Chairman Odell of the Republican State Committee arrived at the hotel early in the afternoon. He saw Postmaster Van Cott and a number of others prominent in Republican politics in the county and elsewhere. Chairman Odeil was not able to have a long talk with Mr. Platt for the reason that he was called away on personal matters to confer with friends at the Metropolitan Club. In his absence from the Fifth Avenue Hotel National Committeeman Frederick S. Gibbs had a consultation with Mr. Platt. Shortly afterward in came ex-Senator Frank Hiscock and Superintendent of Insurance Francis Hendricks of Syracuse. Mr. Platt said he felt greatly pleased over the confirmation by the Senate Judiciary Committee of John R. Hazel of Buffalo to be a United States District Judge. He did not care to say anything as to his talk with Mr. Gibbs. Mr. Odell is to have a conference with Senator Platt this morning. He did not care to say anything about his conversation with Postmaster Van Cott. The most eminent Republicans in the State are greatly interested in the Republican campaign to be put up in the county of New York this fall, and there are to be several more conferences here. There is a desire to come to some sort of settlement before the next regular meeting of the Republican County Committee, to be held on June 21.

THE SUN was authorized to print yesterday that the Republican County Committee was to meet in special session last night to pave the way to the selection of a chairman of the Executhat the Republican County Committee was to meet in special session last night to pave the way to the selection of a chairman of the Executive Committee. At same time it was announced that the chairman of this Executive Committee is to be Aqueduct Commissioner William H. Ten Eyek of the Thirty-fourth Assembly district. Mr. Ten Eyek, under the rules of the Republican County Committee, cannot hold the two places. At the same time The Sin announced that there was to be some sort of campaign committee or rather a sub-committee of the Executive Committee, to conduct the campaign in New York county this fall. The names of this supcommittee up to date were given, namely: Mr. Gibbs, Mr. Bidwell. Mr. Ten Eyek, Mr. Quiga and John Sabine Smith. There is very grave objection to so small a committee, and it is the general opinion that it should be enlarged to ten members, and that men like Frank Raymond. John Reisenweber, Cornelius Van Cott, Surveyor Silas C. Croft and Capt. F. Norton Goddard should be added. There is no disguising the fact that the Republicans in the county believe that a committee should be appointed, which will not have even the semblance of being dominated by Mr. Quigg. Mr. Quigg hardly understands the prejudice which has been aroused against him in New York county. He did say once in an authoritative statement that he was to retire as President of the County Committee "for the good of the Republican party." There are some Republicas who believe that Mr. Quigg is trying to hold on, and in many ways, especially in a financial way, to direct the affairs of the new Republican County Committee, which is to be commanded by Gen. Francis Vinton Greene Was publican County Committee, which is to be commanded by Gen. Francis Vinton Greene was presided, and Postmaster Van Cott introduced important amendments to the rules. The County Committee elected at the official pri-mary in August, 1900, shall meet for organization on the third Thursday in December, 1900. Another was:

The President shall be the chairman of the County member of all standing and special committees.

An amendment to Article V. of the constitution was offered which provides for a chairman of the Finance Committee of the County Committee. This is the post now held by Richard Croker of Tammany Hall. It is proposed to give this place to President Quigg after he resigns as President of the County Committee. There is very serious objection to this amendment. Mr. Croker, as Chairman of the Finance was the serious objection to resigns as President of the County Committee. There is very serious objection to this amendment. Mr. Croker, as Chairman of the Finance Committee of Tammany Hall, is not compelled to give any reports of subscriptions or contributions to the Tammany organization. If the amendment suggested last night in the Republican County Committee is adopted on June 21 and Mr. Quigg becomes Chairman of the Finance Committee of the County Committee, he too will not be compelled to give any report to the main body of the organization of subscriptions or contributions. ance Committee of the County Committee, he too will not be compelled to give any report to the main body of the organization of subscriptions or contributions.

It has been tacitly agreed that Aqueduct Commissioner Ten Eyck shall be the chairman of the Executive Committee, but it has not been decided as yet that there shall be a sub-committee of the Executive Committee to conduct the campaign, although it was believed last night by a majority that a sub-committee of about ten would have charge of the campaign in the county. Just how Mr. Ten Eyck, Republican leader of the Thirty-fourth Assembly district, has been selected for the place of chairman of the Executive Committee is not known. His record as a vote getter in his Republican Assembly district is just as bad as Quicg's. For instance, in 1894, Rheinhart, Republican candidate for Assembly, received 6.801 votes, and Reddington, Tammany, 4.017. Strong for Mayor in that year received 8.722 in Ten Eyck's district, and Grant 3.940. In 1896 Rheinhart, Republican candidate for Assembly, received in the Thirty-fourth district, received in the Thirty-fourth district, received 1.223; Low, 3.593, and Van Wyck, Tammany, 6.422. Brower, Republican candidate for Assembly, received in that contest in the district, 5.330, and Reddington, Tammany, 8.855.

In 1898, Gubernatorial year, Roosevelt received in Mr. Ten Eyck's district, Steuer, received in Mr. Ten Eyck's district, Steuer, received only 4.459 votes, and the Tammany candidate was elected gloriously. So that Mr. Ten Eyck and they said last night that this selection could easily be made from among victorious leaders in Republican districts, as follows: The fifth, Cornelius Van Cott; the eighth, Charles H. Murray; the nine-teenth, George R. Bidwell; the twenty-first, Abraham Gruber; the twenty-fifth, Charles A. Hess; the twenty-seventh, James W. Perry; the twenty-ninth, Alexander T. Mason; and the thirty-first, Silas C. Croft.

Still, it appears that Mr. Ten Eyck has been selected. He has been the personal friend of Jac

March had been selected by President Quigg Edward F. McSweeney as Deputy Commissione of Immigration led to an inquiry into his operalions as a labor agent for railroads. The facts an be found in the records of the Court of General Sessions where a police court fine of $25 mposed upon March for keeping an unlicensed ntelligence office was sustained in 1894. March's name was formerly Marchesi. He was once challenged at the polls, having resistered as "March," and he said that he had had his name changed. His arrest in April, 1894, was made on the complaint of Mattee Mardello of 116 Mulberry street, and he was examined before Justice Taintor at the Tombs police court on April 11. Mardello's complaint alleged to call again. Sometimes the poor fellows have to call a half dozen times before they get hold of anybody who is competent to give them the facts they are after. Now, this seems unnecessary, and if people would stop to think they would not put a man to so much extra work. I don't think that women want to violate the law or to cause an enumerator a lot of extra work. I am more inclined to think that it is thoughtlessness, and I wish that people would think of this when the enumerator calls on them." that on the 2d day of April, 1894, at the city of New York James E. March did engage in the business of keeping an intelligence office, employment bureau agency, at 85 Marion street, where a fee is charged for employment, without first procuring a license therefor from the Mayor, in violation of Chapter 410, laws of 1880, as amended by Chapter 330 of the laws of 1891. Mardello testified that he was accosted on the street by Vincenzo March and asked if he wanted Vincenzo took him to the office, where James E. March said he would secure him a job for $5, $1 upon getting it and $4 at the expiration of the first week's employment. Mardelle paid a dollar and got the job. March sent him over to work on the Erie Railroad in New Jersey The work did not suit, and he went back to March's office and demanded his dollar back.

He got 75 cents of it. March testifled that he had an office at 3 Marion street, and that his business was that of supplying the help to the Eric Railroad. He also supplied help to the North Hudson road. "I'm superintendent for the employment of Mr. Wilbur had to discharge two of his enumerators yesterday. One of them, John Driscoll, couldn't get the information he wanted in a house on Cherry street and so had to go back a second time. He had an interpreter with him and this interpreter complained later that Driscoll had sworn outrageously at the people in the house because they had not been on hand when he called first. He was dismissed at once. John Mahoney, another enumerator, refused to allow a special agent to examine his papers. The special agent complained and Mahoney was ordered to report to Mr. Wilbur with his papers. The papers were found to be in a muddled condition and the man was discharged.

Because William Daub criticised Census Enumerator Leo P. Glassel and then fell upon him and smote him, he paid $5 fine yesterday in the Yorkville police court. When Glassel went into the office of the Stuyvesant Cycle Company at 131 Seventh street on Wednesday to gather facts for his records from the proprietor, Charles Lockman, Daub remarked:

"Here's one of them fresh mugs who want to know all our business."

Glassel ordered Daub, who was a stranger in the place, out, and when the enumerator left the building, Daub beat him with an iron shoe stretcher. THE BARGE OFFICE SCANDAL. Accused Officials to Have a Hearing-Quigg'

WASHINGTON, June 7.-The Treasury Department officials do not yet admit that Assistant Commissioner of Immigration McSweeney will be discharged as a result of the water from the pipes might be detrimental to the tunnel.

Mr. Rose suggested that it would be advisable to take some of the 660 trees to be remeved and replant them in bare spaces at the sides of the street. This would take 300 trees. The rest Mr. Rose thought could be used in extending side lines of trees along Broadway from 156th street north. It would cost, in his opinion, about $50 each to transplant trees which average eight inches in diameter. Mr. Rose said he thought upper Broadway would be handsomer with shrubs in the centre and a row of fine trees along each side than it is at present. The committee will report his views to its organizations. President McKinley and Secretary Gage are well informed as to the finding of the investigating committee, and there is little or no concealment of the fact that as soot as the verdict against McSweeney is officially approved, if it is approved, he will walk the plank.

In the meantime, politicians interested in influencing the appointment of his successor will be busy. Already the name of one probable candidate has been brought to the attention of the Washington authorities, but if the repo as to his character and connections that ha come to Washington are to be considered, as come to washington are to be considered, as of course they will be, his chances of getting the appointment cannot be said to be first class. This applicant is James E. March, the Republican leader of the Sixth Assembly district, and his sponsor is said to be President Lemuel Eli Quigg of the Republican County Committee. Briefly, the statement made to the Wasnington authorities is this:

The report of the actual status of Mr. Quigg's friend has not yet been officially inquired into and may not be until the removal of Mr. McSweeney makes it necessary for the President and the Secretary to look about to find the proper man to be his successor; but neither the President nor Secretary Gage will pay any attention to the recommendation of Mr. March's appointment if it can be demonstrated that he is the kind of man that the reports about him, as outlined above, are true. Warner's Safe Cure Co.,

Gentlemen:-I will be glad to bear testimony to the value of Warner's Safe Cure for dropsy. I want those afflicted as I have been to take this life giver and get well as I did.

I suffered agony for three years and my life was despaired of, when one day my doctor said: "I guess I will give you Warner's." Thank God for such a remedy. It brought me health and new life. I have used it pretty regularly for a year, but I am well today, and had it not been for Warner's Safe Cure I would have been in my grave.

Respectfully, MRS. MELISSA WHITCOMB.

Z-------GEN. WOOD'S ORDERS CONFLICT.

Havana's Mayor or Capt. Pitcher in Suprem Command of the Police Force?

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. HAVANA, June 7 .- Capt. Pitcher's orders to Chief of Police Cardenas instructing him to have all the police captains learn English if they wished to keep their positions has resulted in Mayor Mederos writing a letter to Capt. Pitcher instructing him to keep his hands off the police. Senor Mederos takes the position that under Order 124 issued by Governor General Wood, the control of the police is entirely in the hands of the Mayor. If Capt. Pitcher who, under another of Gen. Wood's orders is superior to the police, de sires to change any of the regulations he must not communicate directly with Chief Cardenas, but through the Mayor. Senor Mederos tells Capt. Pitcher, who was lately put in control of the secret police, to suppress gambling, which is very rife in Havana. The situation is a little ambiguous as the two orders of Gen. Wood are conflicting. Gen. Wood, who will be back from his trip to-morrow, is expected to settle the question of supremacy.

The newspapers are keeping up the agitation against the enforcement of the order to learn English. They are encouraged by the resignation of the Spaniard Checa, whose appointment to a position in the Custom House caused much agitation. Checa resigned against the advice of Col. Bliss. It is intimated that he was frightened out by threats of violence.

CANADA SCORES A POINT.

Insists on Recognition at Paris as a Country Apart From British Posse Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN.

PARIS, June 8.-President Loubet to-day visted the foreign and colonial sections of the exhibition. At the British colonial section there was slight friction concerning precedence. Mr Joseph Tarte, Canadian Minister of Public Works, refused to accept British Commissioner Jekyll's programme for the reception on the ground that it did not give Canada the importance to which the Dominion was entitled. He insisted that President Loubet visit the Canadian section as that of a country distinct from the British possessions; otherwise he would close all the doors of that section.

The point was conceded, whereupon the Canadians displayed evident gratification. The such enthusiasm that, according to the Temps, they forgot to keep time, while cries of "Long live Loubet!" and "Long live the Republic! echoes. When Mr. Tarte bade farewell to the President he shouted "Long live France!"

BLINDING OF MRS. CRONIN.

SHOWER OF LETTERS FROM A WOMAN WHO ACCUSES HERSELF.

Counsel Says in Court That the Write Is Cronin's Real Wife-Dr. Cronin Says This Is Not True-He Knows No Such Person, Mrs. Carrie Cronin, who is the wife of Dr. John C. adjournments before Magistrate Mayo, in the Centre street police court. The Magistrate fixed the examination for the afternoon of June 14, at 2 o'clock and then remarked that no further delay would be granted. Assistant District Attorney McClelland produced a certificate from Dr. Frank N. Irwin, house surgeon of the Manhattan Eye and Ear Hospital, stating that Mrs. Cronin was unable to leave that institution. "She has entirely lost one of her eyes," said Mr. McClelland. "And she is in a very bad condition." Glanvil G. McIntyre, counsel for Mrs. Warner, opposed any adjournment saying that he had fourteen witnesses in court to testify that his client was in Jersey City attending the funeral of a friend, Saidee B. Lynche, on the night the caustic was thrown. These witnesses, Mr. McIntyre said, were from Jersey City, Long Island and Kingston, N. Y. and it was not fair to them to adjourn the case and not fair to Mrs. Warner to keep her longer under bonds.

"Fair to your client!" exclaimed Mr. McClelland, "What about fairness to Mrs. Cronin, who is in this deplorable condition owing to your client?"

"You are mistaken," said Mr. McIntyre, "Mrs. Warner is not the woman who threw that stuff. Dr. Cronin must look nearer home for the guilty person. Let him look to Virginia Cronin, his legal wife.

"What!" exclaimed Dr. Cronin.

"Yes," continued Mr. McIntyre, "Dr. Cronin has another wife, his legal wife. I will produce her at any time it is necessary.

"I have adjourned this case," interrupted Magistrate Mayo, "That is enough of it for now.

He said that she lived at Kingsbridge, but he refused to divulge the exact address. He exhibited a letter dated May 23, signed "Virginia Cronin," which he said had been received by Mrs. Warner. The letter stated that the writer had sent her maid to disfigure Mrs. Cronin and closed with

"We know where Virginia Cronin is," said Mr. McIntyre, "and we will produce her at the right time."

"Do you mean to say that she will incriminate herself," he was asked.

"I mean that she will come down to court and clear Mrs. Warner if necessary. But is will not be necessary. This case will never be pushed. Dr. Cronin knows better."

Dr. Cronin at first declined even to discuss Mr. Mcintyre's charge. When seen at the Manhattan Eye and Ear Infirmary last night the doctor said that Mcintyre's statement was absurd.

"It's a terrible thing that a men should be allowed to make such a damnable statement, particularly when he hasn't a bit of ground for what he says and knows that he hasn't," said the doctor. "I positively deny that the doctor. "I positively deny that the says and knows that he hasn't," said the doctor. "I positively deny that there is any Mrs. Cronin save the woman who has the slightest claim on me. Mr. McIntyre said in court that he could produce a woman who was my wife under the common law, also that it would never be necessary for him to do so as I would not press this case. I defy him to carry out his threat and I will give him every opportunity, for I mean to press this charge against Mrs. Warner relentiessly. There will be no let-up.

"Just how much stock is to be taken in what McIntyre says is best shown by another statement he made in court to-day that my wife has not been in the hospital for five days and is perfectly able to come here to court. She has not been in the hospital for five days and is perfectly able to come here to court. She has not been in the hospital for five days and is perfectly able to come here to court. She has not been out of the institution since she entered it, and I am stopping here myself in order to be with her. I do not care to say what action I will take in this matter, but I think that here may be a libel suit in this thing before we get through with the said for the resu
